Robert (“Bob”) Laurie is a commercial litigator and business advisor with a broad background, particularly in the areas of financial services, manufacturing, life sciences and aviation. Bob is an experienced trial lawyer who has appeared before courts and arbitration panels throughout the United States and in various international proceedings.

Bob regularly advises domestic and international insurance and reinsurance companies on complex commercial matters. He represents insurers in disputes concerning insurance coverage determinations, bad faith/extra-contractual claims, life insurance and related financial products. He has also litigated and arbitrated numerous facultative and treaty reinsurance disputes concerning fraud, contract wording, commutations, allocation, aggregation, number of occurrences, rescission, offset, pre-hearing security and insolvency.

Bob also advises clients on the construction and wording of various types of insurance and reinsurance agreements, with a particular focus on policy wording for cyber insurance products. Bob enjoys advising clients relating to intricate insurance products and facilities and he frequently provides due diligence and transactional assistance to a lending institution for insurance-related loan transactions.

He also frequently represents clients in a broad range of commercial litigation, including commercial contract disputes, commercial fraud, shareholder and partnership disputes, professional liability and product liability.

Bob has also defended clients against tort claims involving aviation accidents, premises liability and sports and recreation facilities.

Bob enjoys assisting clients with business formation, contract drafting and risk management issues, including drafting lease, license, non-compete and distribution agreements. He has helped form many start-up businesses and routinely advises corporate clients as to various aspects of their business.

In addition, Bob has many interests, including surfing, hiking, running and spending time with his wife, two daughters, son, and “Newfie” dogs.

Experience

- Obtained favorable settlement for insurance company on the first day of trial in a multimillion-dollar bad faith litigation arising out of an insurance claim made by an insured for its liability for the manufacture of a defective concrete product. Settlement resulted after the court heard argument (on the first day of trial) on a pending summary judgment motion focused on the inability of the insured to prove bad faith under Connecticut law where insurer had provided a defense and paid the insured’s liability (albeit after a prolonged period of time).
- Successfully represented insurance company before the Connecticut Supreme Court in a highly publicized case involving an insured’s attempt to obtain coverage under a CGL policy for millions in costs and civil penalties resulting from a data-loss incident. The decision is considered one of the seminal cases interpreting CGL policy language in relation to damages arising from the loss of personal information.
- Obtained unanimous defense verdict on behalf of an insurance company following a two-week jury trial in the U.S.D.C. for the District of Connecticut concerning an insureds’ claims of breach of contract and bad faith insurance practices following a fire-loss claim at the insureds’ 400-acre estate.
- Successfully defended life insurer in an arbitration involving claims of fraud and breach of contract made by a beneficiary relating to insurer’s procedures concerning issuing policy amendments and the conduct of agents.
- Successfully defended international medical device manufacturer in a product liability litigation filed in the U.S.D.C. for the District of Connecticut.
- Obtained defense verdict on behalf of German machine-tool manufacturer following two-week bench trial in the U.S.D.C for the District of Connecticut in case alleging breach of a regional distribution and sales agreement and unfair trade practices.

- Obtained a defense verdict on behalf of insurance company against plaintiff's claims that the insurer was liable for alleged negligent repairs and remediation performed by an independent contractor referred to the plaintiff following a loss under a commercial insurance policy.
- Successfully represented a publicly-held insurance company in a complex and high stakes series of reinsurance disputes pending in the United States and the United Kingdom arising out of the client's participation in a workers' compensation carve-out reinsurance pool.
